QUICK SHEET · CONSTITUTION OF THE FEDERATED REPUBLIC

Article II — The Dual Executive

Two consuls, two domains, one Legislature both must answer to. Neither runs the Republic alone — and neither can be removed the same way.

§2.1–§2.18
Article II + §7.4

THE SPLIT

Legat Consul — EXTERNAL

Domain: military command, external intelligence, foreign affairs and treaties, trade agreements, indigenous-nation relations, defense-domain budget proposal.

4 yrs	12 years	§2.13
TERM · DIRECT ELECTION	LIFETIME MAX · §2.1	REMOVAL PROVISION

CONCURRENT REVIEW

Civic Consul — DOMESTIC

Domain: residual executive authority, domestic policy and regulation, civic-domain budget proposal, civil service, social-state administration.

No fixed	12 years	§2.6
TERM · ASSEMBLY-ELECTED	LIFETIME MAX · §2.5	REMOVAL PROVISION

Both consuls review every bill from the same date of final passage — §2.3.a and §2.7 run on identical 10-business-day clocks. The annual budget itself originates in the Assembly under §12.2 — each Consul submits an NRS-published proposal for their own domain, which the Assembly is not bound by.

TWO VETOES, DIFFERENT STRENGTH

LC Domain Veto §2.3.a

`Return + grounds` → `Senate 2/3 or lapse`

Either Speaker may request an EM domain assessment (§9.1) — informational only.

10	Session
BUS. DAYS	IF LAPSED

CC Suspensive Veto §2.7

`Return + grounds` → `Tabled 1 month` → `Senate 2/3 or re-pass`

10	1 mo	Re-pass
BUS. DAYS	TABLING	IF FAILED

No CC veto for the annual budget, constitutionally required legislation, or emergency legislation. Emergency designation requires 2/3 of the full seated membership of both chambers at final passage; it also bars reconsideration (§2.7).

IF THE CIVIC CONSUL SEAT IS EMPTY — §2.6.A

STAGE 1 · 21 DAYS DEFAULT
Assembly Elects
Absolute majority of full seated membership.

→

STAGE 2 · CARETAKER
Speaker Acts
Speaker acts — existing policy only. No Speaker: longest continuous Assembly service, then age. No veto; a reconsideration notice automatically pauses review for 10 business days.

→

STAGE 3 · BALLOT
Two to Four Advance
The Acting CC runs a ballot without quorum. Two to four advance; a tie exceeding four is resolved by continuous service, then age.

→

STAGE 4 · 45 DEFAULT · 90 MAX
The Nation Votes
Panel runs national RCV within 45 days by default, at most 90 from ballot close. The Assembly may elect by absolute majority before the election begins; once begun, it concludes.

NUMBERS WORTH REMEMBERING

§2.6 — Constructive vote — an absolute majority of the full seated Assembly removes the CC, and must name a successor in the same motion.

§2.8 — Duty of Refusal — civil servants and military members may not comply with orders from either consul that would violate the constitution or statute. Refusal creates no liability. The order may be reported to the EM.

§7.9 — Elected mandates are protected — no act of the Legislature, either executive, any court, any Monitor, or any administrative body may shorten, suspend, or terminate one outside this Constitution's own removal paths.

§2.15 — Federal Prosecution — the CC sets general policy; the Service is independent in individual cases. Any direction on a specific case is published to the NRS.

§2.17 — Executive cooling-off bars other executive service, including minister, domain officer, and acting roles. This is the express exception to §7.4(5); otherwise eligible legislative, judicial, and other service remains available.

THREE MORE LOAD-BEARING MECHANISMS

Council of Ministers §2.14 · §2.14.a

`Both Consuls' officers` → `Meet jointly, standing body` → `Recommends only — no executive authority`

A joint body, not a CC office — the two sides are constituted differently: the Legat Consul's domain officers (offices defined by statute — Senate-confirmed, Senate-removable by majority, §2.4.a) and the Civic Consul's ministers (appointed at the CC's pleasure, no confirmation, §2.5). They meet together as the primary forum for cross-domain matters, recommending only. A separate, narrower mechanism (§2.14.a) lets either executive propose a temporary operational lead in a crisis spanning both domains; it takes effect only with both executives' concurrence, and coordinates rather than transfers authority. It also determines executive incapacity under §2.16 — a constitutional function, not executive action.

Emergency Governance §2.11

`Available chamber members` → `Continuity emergency` → `30 days, renewable; SC review`

When extraordinary circumstances prevent ordinary constitutional government from functioning, a majority of available members of either chamber may declare a continuity emergency without quorum, stating the circumstances and publishing to the NRS. A chamber able to meet may act without quorum, and alone if the other cannot, only to preserve essential functions (including elections) and restore normal governance. No amendment, term extension outside §7.2.a, or rights derogation outside §1.19. Measures lapse with the emergency unless enacted through ordinary legislation. The declaration lapses after 30 days unless renewed by the same process; any member or Monitor may seek expedited SC review. Unavailable Consuls are covered by §2.9 and §2.16. Ordinary procedures resume as soon as they can function.

Executive Incapacity §2.16

`Majority determines` → `24h ordinary restoration` → `Repeat: 2/3 + review`

Incapacity follows the Consul's declaration or a Council majority with at least five participating. Acting authority passes immediately to the chamber's Speaker, statutory successors, then its senior member (continuous service, then age). Ordinary restoration takes effect 24 hours after NRS publication. A substantially similar recurrence within 90 days needs 2/3; for 30 days restoration needs a deciding-body majority or SC relief. Each chamber may extend that period by simple majority, to at most six months from the renewed determination. If fewer than five Council members are available, legislators from the opposite chamber are drawn by lot to reach five. Incapacity suspends authority, not office (§2.16). Acting officers retain their original mandate but cannot exercise its authority; the selecting body may designate an interim holder of those functions (§7.8).

A theoretical constitutional design project — not the law of any existing nation.
